

The constant country maid, or innocent love at length rewarded. which by these lines is here set forth in part the constant love, that lodged in her heart ; which was by no means for to be remov'd, since she would venture all for him she lov'd : for which he did reward her at the last, and made amends for all her sorrows past

University of California, Santa Barbara, The Early Modern Center, 2008

Ballads

Monografía

<https://rebiunoda.pro.baratznet.cloud:28443/OpacDiscovery/public/catalog/detail/b2FpOmNlbGVicmF0aW9uOmVzLmJhemF0ei5yZW4vMjQ3MzYyODY>

Título: The constant country maid, or innocent love at length rewarded. which by these lines is here set forth in part the constant love, that lodged in her heart ; which was by no means for to be remov'd, since she would venture all for him she lov'd for which he did reward her at the last, and made amends for all her sorrows past

Editorial: Santa Barbara, CA University of California, Santa Barbara, The Early Modern Center 2008

Descripción física: 1 online resource

Variantes del título: First line YOu Country DAmsels, fine and gay

Nota general: TEI file encoded by the English Broadside Ballad Archive Editorial Team Title from English Broadside Ballad Archive (queried Mon, 25 Jun 2012 15:10:17 PDT) EMC no. 30430 C.20.f.9(110-111) ESTC no. R216089 Original publication date: c. 1666-1700

Versión original: Reproduction of Original Manuscript British Library. Roxburghe Ballads. London, UK, 2008

Financiación: Sponsored by the University of California, Santa Barbara and The Early Modern Center

Materia: Ballads, English- 17th century Broadside- 17th century Ballads, English

Entidades: University of California (Santa Bárbara). Early Modern Center

Baratz Innovación Documental

- Gran Vía, 59 28013 Madrid
- (+34) 91 456 03 60
- informa@baratz.es