Analítica

This article consists of analyzing the implementation of the "Purple Code" in the complaints submitted to the Pichincha Prosecutor's Office, Gender Unit 3, located at Av. Amazonas and Ramón Roca during the confinement by COVID-19. Being the year 2020 the most hostile scenario of violence against women and members of the family nucleus due to confinement as a result of the pandemic. This protocol is activated in Educational and Health Centers, in order to investigate crimes of psychological, physical and sexual violence. The main objective is to establish whether the implementation of the purple code is sufficient to eradicate violence against women or members of the family nucleus; and identify the main factors for which the complaints do not reach the courts. The methodology used is mixed, considering that it is necessary to investigate quantitative-qualitative data through the complaints filed in gender unit 3, by activating the "Purple Code" protocol and through the survey research technique. practiced, conclusions are reached on the topic addressed
