

"The Forty-niners": unit history of the Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, 49th AAA Brigade, December 1, 1942 to May 9, 1945. [

1945

Textual; Illustrations; Maps; Photographs

Monografía

The 49th AAA Brigade was activated on the 1st of December, 1942, at Camp Davis, N.C., U.S.A. In the initial period of activation, the Brigade pursued its MTP training with enthusiasm and gradually filled its T/O strength of officers and enlisted men. Brigadier General O. H. Longino assumed command on the 8th of January, 1943, and was relieved by Brigadier General L. L. Stuart on the 24th of February, 1943. On the 30th of April, 1943, General Stuart was relieved by Brigadier General B. L. Milburn

<https://rebiunoda.pro.baratznet.cloud:38443/OpacDiscovery/public/catalog/detail/b2FpOmNlbGVicmF0aW9uOmVzLmJhcmF0ei5yZW4vMzU5NDYyOTI>

Título: "The Forty-niners": unit history of the Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, 49th AAA Brigade, December 1, 1942 to May 9, 1945. [electronic resource].]

Editorial: 1945

Tipo Audiovisual: World War, 1939-1945 World War Two WWII Unit histories European Theater of Operations (ETO) United States Army, Antiaircraft Artillery Brigade, 49th Antiaircraft artillery Equipment and supplies Regimental histories United States Army European Theater of Operations (ETOUSA)

Nota general: World War II Operational Documents

Restricciones de acceso: Open access content. Open access content star

Calidad de los datos: Conforms To: Combined Arms Research Library Digital Library

Condiciones de uso y reproducción: Approved for public release; distribution is unlimited

Lengua: English

- Gran Vía, 59 28013 Madrid
- (+34) 91 456 03 60
- informa@baratz.es