

Regulating toxic substances : a philosophy of science and the law /

Cranor, Carl F., author

Oxford University Press,
1993

Monografía

This treatise on the legal assessment of risks regarding toxic chemicals addresses the standards of evidence in legal proceedings and the regulatory decisions covering these chemicals

<https://rebiunoda.pro.baratznet.cloud:28443/OpacDiscovery/public/catalog/detail/b2FpOmNlbGVicmF0aW9uOmVzLmJhcmF0ei5yZW4vMzYzNzgzMDI>

Título: Regulating toxic substances a philosophy of science and the law Carl F. Cranor

Editorial: New York Oxford Oxford University Press 1993

Descripción física: 1 online resource (273 p.)

Mención de serie: Environmental Ethics and Science Policy Series

Nota general: Description based upon print version of record

Bibliografía: Includes bibliographical references and index

Contenido: Contents; Introduction: Assessing Toxic Substances Through a Glass Darkly; 1. The Scientific Background; 2. Scientific Evidence in the Tort Law; 3. Joint Causation, Torts, and Administrative Law in Environmental Health Protections; 4. Scientific Procedures in Regulatory Agencies; 5. Epistemic and Moral Justification; Notes; Appendix A: Uncertainties in Carcinogen Risk Assessments; Appendix B: Cancer Potency Estimates of CDHS and EPA; Appendix C: Relative Risk as a Function of Alpha and Beta Values; Appendix D: Statutes Authorizing Regulation of Carcinogens Appendix E: Derivation of TD[sub(50)] Potency ValuesBibliography; Index

Lengua: English

ISBN: 1-280-47380-0 0-19-534491-X 1-60256-617-8

Materia: Hazardous substances- Law and legislation- United States Chemicals- Law and legislation- United States Industrial safety- Law and legislation- United States

Enlace a formato físico adicional: 0-19-985293-6 0-19-507436-X

Punto acceso adicional serie-Título: Environmental ethics, values, and policy

Baratz Innovación Documental

- Gran Vía, 59 28013 Madrid
- (+34) 91 456 03 60
- informa@baratz.es